FLOOD SWEEPS THROUGH SHAWNEE CHAUNCEY DEPEW DIED TODAY IN NEW YORK TAKING OF TESTIMONY BEGINS IN OUSTER SUIT

CAREER OF GRAND OLD MAN CLOSES AT AGE OF 94 YEARS

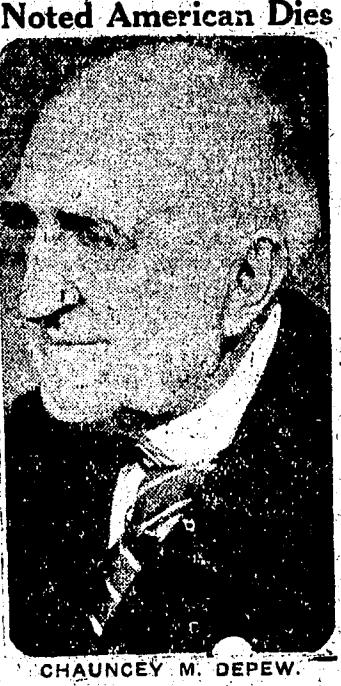

WAS NOTED AS AFTER DINNER SPEAKER, REPUBLICAN AND RAIL LEADER

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP)—Chauncey M. Depew, picturesque grand old man, who entered politics before Lincoln was mentioned for the presidency and for more than 70 years was famed as an after dinner speaker, died at 4:30 a.m. today at his home, of bronchial pneumonia.

He had been ill for less than a week and would have been 94 years old on April 23. He continued an active career until the end, serving as chairman of the board of the New York Central Railroad. He intended to attend the Republican national convention in Kansas City in June. With the exception of the 1924 convention in Cleveland, he had attended every Republican convention as a delegate, nine in all, since 1888. At his first convention he received 99 votes for the presidential nomination, but withdrew in favor of Benjamin Harrison. His wit in rousing political speeches was a feature of conventions and caused him in early days to be known as "The Peach."

He served two terms as United States senator, from 1893 to 1911.

ARKANSAS TWISTER KILLS ONE, INJURES NUMEROUS OTHERS

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW.

Chauncey M. Depew, who would have been 94 years old on April 23, this year, died at his New York home early Thursday morning, following a short illness which culminated in pneumonia. Depew had been long active in Republican party and railroad circles of the nation.

SEVERAL COUNTIES VISITED LATE WEDNESDAY BY DISASTROUS TORNADOES

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 5.—(AP)—Counting its losses at one dead and at least 15 injured, five seriously, Washington county today began a check of property loss from last night's twister that swept from Oklahoma, and at the same time with Benton and Carroll counties, watched rising streams with concern.

The tornado, following on the trail of torrential rains which saved Ouachita Forest reserve and the Ozarks reserve from further fire losses, struck first at Betsy community, near Lincoln. There Tony Spears, 12, was killed and five other members of his family injured when their house was demolished.

TWIN BANDITS ROB NEW ORLEANS HOTEL EARLY HOUR TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, April 5.—(AP)—Twin bandits made their appearance in New Orleans today when two men, dressed identically even to the shade of their scars held up the cashier of the fashionable Bienville hotel and escaped with $300 in currency and a number of checks.

Louis J. Blaum, night-clerk, told police the men were exact in height and size. The only variation in their costume being that one wore a mask.

While the unmasked robber held Blaum and George Sauzerau at bay with a pistol, his confederate forced Martin Rezza, assistant night-clerk, into the cashier's cage where he scooped up all currency and checks in sight.

As the men started for the door, L. E. Jung, newspaper vendor came into the lobby and he was forced to join the hotel employees and Sauzerau with their hands in the air. Bob Crawford, night house watchman, was subjected to similar treatment. The robbers entered a waiting automobile and escaped.

The Weather

East Texas—Tonight cloudy, rain and local thunderstorms in extreme east portion; colder. Friday mostly cloudy, colder except in northwest portion; fresh to strong southwest winds, with squalls on the coast tonight, shifting to northwest Friday.

West Texas—Tonight fair, cold. Friday fair.

MARINES KILLED NINE REBELS IN FIVE ENCOUNTERS

MANAGUA, April 5.—(AP)—American marine patrols spread out over northern Nicaragua today continued to track scattered bands of rebels through the jungles.

Nine rebels have been killed by marines in five separate encounters within a week and an undetermined number wounded.

A small patrol of Marines also drove a band of 30 rebels out of Trinidad just before dawn yesterday. Because it was dark, the Marines under Lieutenant Benjamin W. Atchinson of South Carolina were unable to tell whether they had slain or wounded any of the fleeing followers of General Augustino Sandino. There were no Marine casualties.

Two other patrols encountered rebels and each patrol killed one and wounded one.

Corsicana Residents Are Witnesses In Woods Case In Waxahachie Thursday

By WARD LUSK.
(Daily Sun Special Correspondent)

WAXAHACHIE, April 5.—Characterized by several lively tilts between opposing counsel and a portion of the morning devoted to a question of procedure in which the jury was excluded, Thursday afternoon's session of the L. J. Woods ouster trial was continuing with Golda Fay Smith, state witness, still on the stand. State Attorney Joe Brown had not concluded his examination of the witness at the noon hour adjournment.

Two witnesses for the state were on the stand Thursday, second day of taking testimony. In its questioning the state is still hinting at conspiracy between W. L. Bibb and the defendant, and each query seemed designed to convince the jury of that fact.

Dick Molloy testified he owned two restaurants, one downtown which he operated, and a pig stand on North Beaton street run by his daughter, Jean, and Golda Fay Smith; that he was informed his daughter and her chum had been arrested for selling beer and that he conferred with Bibb and Woods about it; that Bibb agreed to take the case.

Molloy said Woods told him, "I've got the goods on you, and am going to send you to the penitentiary," but declared Woods added, "There is only one way to keep out of the pen if you're smart enough and that is to see a good lawyer, and there are several in town."

Not Promised Immunity.

Cross-examined by Dick Mays, Molloy admitted he knew beer was being sold at the pig stand and that he had been before the grand jury several times. He admitted the stand was riddled by Woods and Rufus Pevhouse, and declared he was not promised immunity if he would testify.

Golda Fay Smith, who, she said, has lived in Corsicana all her life, admitted she was arrested for being sold and that she made a statement to the county attorney but declared the confession was changed; that the part implicating Mr. and Mrs. Molloy was erased; that she had been before the grand jury but Bibb coached her what to say to that body. Witness said she signed another statement in Mays' office after her friend, W. L. Morgan, advised her to, and that Mays thanked her, offering to assist her if she ever got into trouble.

Wednesday's Session.

With the arguments over practicability of admitting certain portions of the plaintiffs' original petition of 29 counts settled after the entire morning had been consumed by attorneys' deliberations, County Attorney A. D. Emerson began reading the petition to the jury, after which the defense stated its exceptions through A. P. Mays.

Shortly after, about 3:30 p. m., introduction of evidence began with G. E. Smith, Dallas grocer, being the first witness for the state. Only four witnesses were heard until adjournment. Mr. Smith, W. F. Bane, Dallas attorney; Mrs. Smith, and Attorney Winn of Kaufman.

The afternoon session was interspersed with fireworks, attorneys for both sides objecting constantly to portions of the evidence. Dick Mays, who led the questioning for the defense, several times challenged the testimony declaring it "immaterial and irrelevant."

He also deplored the "leading of witnesses."

W. A. Tarver conducted examination of the state witnesses.

IS PAYING THE PRICE FOR DOING HIS DUTY, STATES L. J. WOODS

RATHER BE SHOT DOWN THAN HAVE NAME BE SMIRCHED WITH BRIBERY

BY WARD LUSK.
(Daily Sun Special Correspondent)

WAXAHACHIE, April 4.—Characterizing the action against him as political hatred in which his enemies wish to discredit him by obtaining his removal, County Attorney L. J. Woods Thursday bitterly denounced those whom he blames for the ouster trial now in progress here against him.

"My record stands and speaks for itself," Attorney Woods declared, and I have lost but three things, my wife, two small children and my good name. And I am sincere when I say it—I would rather be shot down in these corridors than to have my name besmirched with bribery and stand dishonored among my friends for dereliction in office."

The defendant, standing in the corridor of the Ellis county courthouse, told of his past life, his service in the world war, and his coming to Corsicana from Grayson county seven years ago.

"I am paying the price today for doing my duty; for many years a clique had held sway in Navarro county, and liquor making was rampant. In my zeal to enforce the law I made it hard on bootleggers, tearing up their playhouses and now they seek to kick me out of office. I have tried 109 cases in district court last year and 105 of them were convictions with four acquittals. That is, I think, a good record for any prosecutor."

"Watch the bootleggers in the court room if you know them—they are all against me; but the church people of Navarro are my friends and will return me to office. I could get ten thousand persons in Grayson county who know me to touch for my integrity."

Attorney Woods is optimistic as to the outcome and says the state can make no case against him; that the whole thing is a frame-up, the result of the "combine of influential citizens, many of them in high places," who seek his removal.

THE FAULT OF THE TIMES.

Senator Capper of Kansas thus admonishes the Republican party:"The party must purge itself of the oil smudge. The job must be thoroughly done. I have every confidence in the patriotism, the loyalty, the honesty and the sound judgment of the Republicans of this country."It is evident that when the senator expressed confidence in "the patriotism, the loyalty, the honesty and the sound judgment of the Republicans of this country" he does not include those administration leaders who were looking the other way when the "unscrupulous and infamous freebooters" were carrying on so high-handedly in Washington, or else he would have demanded that they bring forth the cleaning up and begin purifying the party, instead of inviting the ranks and file of the party to undertake the Augen task.Once when someone was professed to give an account of what he called the British cabinet's dealing with the Irish question, Archbishop Magee of New York interjected,
"No, no, not dealing—shutting."It strikes the Sun that this is about the way the Kansas senator is dealing with the oil scandal, although he does seem to be fully alive both to the enormity and to its possibly fatal reaction upon the fortunes of the Republican party. This is why we think he should lay the axe more directly to the root of the national upas tree.However, the senator has spoken plainly and opportunity in calling upon Republicans everywhere to repudiate the men who participated in the assault on the government oil-fields and to also un-yieldingly insist upon the vigorous prosecution of the civil and criminal cases against them.It is certainly high time that a more critical public opinion was created in this country. There has been a startling decay of both of official morale and the popular temper since the war to "make the world a fit place to live in." So completely have we been in the power of the political and profituer "go-getters" that no surprise is excited when gross corruption is uncovered, for it seems to be the logical result of the system under which we are working.Blinded by the glittering but jug-gernaught successes of our mu-neristic age, the people have accepted the revelations of the colossal treacheries and tilchings at Washington with a wooden indifference that has not only forbidden inquiry, but has actually minimized the crimes.

Now, see how it might be.

Suppose the people should make it understood everywhere that corruption—in any form or degree—is the unpardonable sin against society. Suppose they should rise in their all-conquering might and proclaim aloud their hatred of malfeasance in office, bring rougery with relentless justice to the barring a grave and hurl rascality into it without form or ceremony of interment, put up a headstone as a warning to all comers, with words like these engraven thereon: "Here lies a scoundrel, and here all other scoundrels will lie." What would be the result?The "odds beyond arithmetic" are that a large proportion who are now in office and who now handle the funds and the interest of the public in a loose or dishonest way would fill headquarters with letters of resignation and that the gift bearing Greeks of the great exploitative interests, would become scarcer in the national capital than the proverbial molars of hens.What we need is a greater pride in our institutions and a fierce and uncontrolled resentment against those who betray them. The duty of the people is not only to get mad, but to stay mad.We can have honest government whenever we show that we are in earnest by hammering the heads of all who have a whiff of smoke under their hornets' nest is not enough. We must stand patiently holding the gunbarrel until every pestiferous creature is smothered to death.

Ouster Suit Goes Trial Tuesday; Selecting Jury Occupies Morning Hours

BY WARD LUSK
DAILY SUN SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
WAXAHACHIE, April 3.—Although their work was progressing slowly, belief was expressed shortly after noon Tuesday that a jury would be sworn in late this afternoon for the civil ouster proceedings against County Attorney L. J. Woods of Navarro county, before Judge Tom Ball's dis-trict court.

The court session was begun promptly at 9 a.m. today with Judge Ball overruling all matters taking most of the time Monday, to which the defense excepted. Taking testimony may begin early Wednesday.

Only 14 of the thirty-six jurors summoned for the week were on hand but the number was increased at a hearing of court by a picked up list of thirty-seven.

Judge John Sharp for the state questioned the list carefully, asking each man as to his acquaintance with the case and whether he had received a letter from any person in regards to it. Judge Sharp finished at 11:20 with only about four excused for cause.

Title of Attorney.

Judge Bowd Farrar for the defense immediately began questioning the list and several lively tilts were engaged in when Farrar asked men about the "political situation in Navarro county," this query meeting instant objection of the state.

The men excused by the state were Mr. Copeland, banker of Palmer; C. V. Davis, Ennis grocer; Bob Bain, Waxahachie cotton man; and Mr. Coleman, real estate man of this city. Mr. Etheridge of Mifflord, a gin man and farmer, was excused by the defense.

Mr. Copeland gave as his excuse for not serving on the jury, that his mind was made up. He said he knew Letchard Woods, that he had visited the latter in his bank and that he and his office associates had often discussed the case.

Mr. Davis, the Ennis merchant, said he had talked of the case several times with a Corsicana grocery salesman representing the Central Texas Grocery company, but didn't remember his name.

Opinion Formed.

Bob Bain said his opinion was formed as to the case; said he had talked with George Stubbs of Mexia about it. Stubbs is a former Waxahachian.

The only response to the states attorney query as to a "letter" came from Mr. Coleman. He said he had read a letter "Joe Simkins had written his brother about the ouster trial." He was immediately dismissed. Mr. Etheridge, the Mifflord gin man, was subjected to close questioning before being excused by the defense. He said the fact he was charged with certain things "intimated there might be something to them."

Monday Session.

Although the entire day was consumed, a jury was obtained in the trial of L. J. Woods for official misconduct under way in Judge Tom Ball's district court was obtained at nearly 6 p.m. Tuesday as follows:

J. L. Fallen, Ennis, farmer.

C. W. Few, Midlothian, farmer.

C. E. Gann, Waxahachie, telephone employee.

J. T. Borders, Waxahachie, farmer.

A. G. Hobson, Waxahachie, cotton yard man.

A. B. Curry, Waxahachie, druggist.

V. S. Lewis, Waxahachie, insurance.

F. P. Ellis, Waxahachie, accountant.

J. Scott Rutherford, Waxahachie, banker.

C. R. Sessions, Waxahachie, cotton buyer.

M. B. Few, Waxahachie, filling station.

B. F. Dorsey, accountant.

Shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday both sides announced ready for trial and John Sharp representing the state began examination of the list of 37 prospective jurors, all but 14 of whom had been obtained on short notice. Sharp stressed the question as to whether the men had read or received letters purporting to contain information about the trial, while the defense throughout the day hinted at "political conspiracy," asking each man if he knew anything of the political situation now existing in Navarro county.

Sharp completed his examination of the list from 9:10 until 11:20 a.m., when Judge Bowd Farrar, in charge of this phase of the trial for the defendant, began immediately thereafter but did not finish until after 4 o'clock.

Two Hours Select Jury.

After each side had completed examination of the prospective jurors, almost two hours were consumed in agreeing upon the twelve who will decide whether Woods is guilty or not guilty.

A full courtroom was again present for the trial although there was but little of interest to fans. Wednesday at 9 a.m., however, interest will be on the increase for taking of testimony will begin. All defense witnesses have been excused until Friday morning, indicating that the trial will run at least ten days.

Questioned as to the advantage to be gained, state attorneys said it mattered but little whether the criminal indictments were brought up first or the civil suit, but it is known the defense attorneys filed a motion to try the indictments first. Judge Ball overruled the motion and only the civil suit is now being heard.

DAIRY MOVEMENT SWEEPS SOUTHWEST SAYS FAIR HEAD

TEXAS IS HELD TO BE GROWING INTO DAIRYING BUSINESS RAPIDLY

DALLAS, April 5—(Spl.)—"No man who has not kept in close touch with the progress of the dairy movement now sweeping over Texas and the Southwest, has any conception of the activity of the campaign nor of the care that is being taken everywhere to insure its complete success," says Harry A. Olmsted, president of the State Fair of Texas, which is to sponsor the first annual Dairy Show, to be held under the auspices of the newly-organized Southwestern Dairy Association, during the 1928 State Fair, October 6 to 21.

"Texas is not 'going' into the dairy business," continued Mr. Olmsted, "it is growing into it—and how? In all parts of the state dairy schools and short courses in dairying are being held and attended by hundreds of progressive farmers in each community who give careful attention to the subjects discussed by the experts in charge.

"Chambers of Commerce and bankers in scores of counties are putting up the money to finance the establishment of pure-bred dairy herds on the farms of enterprising but conservative farmers. Bull circles are being formed and testing campaigns organized everywhere.

Dabblers Discouraged.

"Dabblers and tinkers are being discouraged and only men and women with some training and the right mettle are being packed and aided by the bankers and business men.

"Thus, the movement, although sweeping in scope, is well in hand and continues to be well directed and I see no reason why, within the next few years, Texas cannot take a place at or near the top of the list of the great dairying states of America.

"The directors of the State Fair, realizing what the success of this movement will mean to the people of the state and the Southwest in general, will leave nothing undone to bring it about. Our entire organization is working to this end and to make the First Annual Southwestern Dairy Show not only a perfect picture of what already has been accomplished, but a stepping-stone to further and higher progress."

FARM WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By FRANK I. WELLER

(Associated Press Farm Editor)
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Farm relief and the department of agriculture appropriation bill, two chief items of interest to the nation's first industry, are definitely ready for action by the seventieth congress.

The house agricultural committee has reported the Haugen measure, companion to the McNary bill, already before the senate, and the senate committee on appropriations has reported the department of agriculture appropriation bill, already passed by the house.

Coming to a vote as the McNary-Haugen bill, farm relief is scheduled for early consideration in the house. If passed, it will be sent to the senate. Since the house already has passed the agricultural appropriation bill, it remains only to be voted upon in the senate.

Determined the McNary-Haugen bill shall not go unchallenged in the house, the National Grange has served notice that it will invoke an option to substitute the Jones-Ketcham export debenture bill when farm relief comes to a vote in that body.

Louis J. Taylor of Columbus, Ohio, national master of the Grange, will come to Washington officials here to lead the fight against house adoption of the McNary-Haugen bill and its controversial equalization fee. The fact that the export debenture plan received eight votes from the house agricultural committee has spurred the Grange to renewed efforts. It claims to have had 10 of the 21 committee votes in sight at one time.

Southern members of congress, it says, will support the Jones-Ketcham bill on the floor of the house and will be joined by strong support from the New England states where the Grange has made a point of the fact that it considers the export debenture plan actually a system to give agriculture the same benefits enjoyed by industry under the present protective tariff.

In reporting the agricultural appropriation bill, the senate committee added $1,748,595 to the fund passed by the house, bringing the total to $134,237,444.

Agricultural research, lamenting a lack of funds in the past, was well represented in the senate increase. The following amounts were itemized:

Twenty thousand dollars additional for the study of cattle diseases.

COTTON COUNTIES SAID TO BE FALLING BEHIND FINANCIALLY

ONLY SOUND BASIS OF PROSPERITY IS DIVERSIFICATION BANKERS HEAR

(By Sun Staff Correspondent.)

BLOOMING GROVE, April 4.—(AP)—The Texas black land cotton section is gradually dropping down the prosperity ladder and the most practical program for improving the situation is apparently a program of sound diversification which emphasizes good type dairy cows and home grown feeds and permanent pastures, in the opinion of H. M. Madison, agricultural agent of the Southern Pacific Lines, who was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the "Navarro County Bankers' Association held in Blooming Grove Tuesday night.

In spite of the rain which limited the attendance to representatives from Blooming Grove, Frost, Corsicana and Dawson, there were some fifty persons present for the meeting, presided over by A. G. Elliott, president of the Corsicana bank and head of the county bankers.

Meeting is Enjoyable.

Other speakers of the evening expressed from various angles the general viewpoint outlined by Mr. Madison in the discussions which were devoted primarily to agricultural improvement.

The meeting was held in a vacant business building and a delightful meal was served by a committee of ladies of the Blooming Grove Fair association consisting of Madam J. R. Griffin, J. B. Fesmire, and S. M. Woodward. Hosts for the evening were Blooming Grove, Frost, Dawson and Barry, and in the words of President Elliott, "the West End bankers have done themselves proud." In spite of the limited attendance the fine spirit of hospitality made the affair one of the most pleasing in the history of the county bankers' meetings.

Interspersed during the evening were selections from the Blooming Grove male quartette, composed of Dr. J. J. Sheppard, R. L. McClure, G. W. McClure and H. D. Minims, with Miss Freddie Barham at the piano. The fervor with which this musical group gave their negro spiritual numbers brought hearty applause from the bankers.

Cotton-Counties Are Slipping. A careful analysis of the fifty-two counties of Texas served by the Southern Pacific Lines and which depend primarily on farm operation, show in the course of the past few years a noticeable loss in per capita valuation," began Mr. Madison in discussing the need of improved agricultural program. "There has also been a loss in the fertility of soils through an all-cotton program of between three-quarters and one per cent per year for the past twenty years, and in many places farm lands do not produce a sufficient net revenue to pay the taxes and carrying charges."

Texas cotton production per acre is the lowest in rank of the cotton producing states in the nation, with the possible exception of Florida, which is not primarily a cotton producing state," continued Mr. Madison. "Farm tenancy is also increasing in Texas in black land counties at the rate of about 1 per cent per year and the forcible evidences of decreased revenue are easily seen in the poor type of farm improvement.

Outside for Capital. Mr. Madison called the attention further to the fact that the cotton counties were forced to sell bonds for public improvements to financial sources outside their county and that there is not sufficient surplus of wealth created in these counties to pay for adequate private improvements. In contrast to this situation in the black land cotton counties the speaker told of a recent visit to Fayette county where diversified farming had given a high per capita bank deposit average where one bank had not made a crop loan in ten years.

In introducing and making effective a definite improvement of Texas farming in black land counties the part of the banker was emphasized by Mr. Madison, who declared that the banker, through his judicious control of credit was in a position to do more to remedy farm conditions than all the legislators and congressional bodies combined. The first thing that must be done as a basic provision in any farming change must be to assure producing a living for the family, which means a certain amount of diversification.

Afford, the farmer has only his labor and ingenuity as the principal items in producing wealth and with cotton alone he cannot spend profitably all his time, declared Mr. Madison. The cotton crop, by failing to enable the farmer to profitably employ all his time on a year-around basis, creates a shut-down of farm labor, as disastrous to farm prosperity as the effect in manufacturing areas when great industries close down for short periods and leave thousands of their workers out of employment.

Only Good Cows Profitable. In emphasizing dairy development, the speaker declared that a cow producing less than 300 pounds of milk annually is not really a cow, but a liability except possibly for breeding up purposes. There must not only be good cows to make farm dairying possible, but the feed must be grown at home. By all means there should be a good pasture and it takes at least two basic grasses to make a sufficient diet.

Roger H. Davis, of New Hampshire, a guest of Mr. Madison, said that in inspecting dairying in the south, he was impressed by the fact that the average Southern cow produced only about two gallons per day, while the average per animal in the north and east was from three to four gallons. He emphasized the need of bankers and chambers of commerce making a definite survey of the milk cows in their county in making any plans for getting new market facilities.

J. N. Edens, president of the First National bank of Corsicana and a member of the chamber of commerce county-wide dairy committee, explained that a cow census of Navarro county was now being taken and the help of all the bankers was needed. He declared that the dairy program was not only the problem of the bankers, but of business men generally as well.

John C. Beck, well known Frost banker, said that his community would make the cow survey of their section this week and promised full co-operation in the program.

R. L. Harris, Blooming Grove banker, said that he believed that the people were getting fully aware to the need of more dairy cattle on the farm and that his community was also going to complete the survey this week.

Judge Hawkins Scarborough said that the diversification area of Navarro county could be told by the class of farm houses and outbuildings and explained that it was noticeable that the so-called poorer land sections of the county were really coming to the front. His talk was spiced with humorous reminiscences that brought frequent laughs.

Roberts Discusses Service Fee. N. Sutle Roberts of the State National bank of Corsicana gave an interesting discussion of the service charge inaugurated in Corsicana on small banking accounts. He declared that such a fee might well be adopted by other bankers in the county, saying that it was unfair for any customer to ask his bank to carry for him an unprofitable account. Mr. Roberts said that banks were called on for substantial service in connection with every account and that experience showed that it cost about four cents to handle each individual check and that the service charge was in line with good business practice and had met with no ill will in Corsicana.

Griffin Welcomes Visitors.

J. R. Griffin, who with R. L. Harris of Blooming Grove, acted as a committee on arrangements for the meeting, made a happy address of welcome, declaring that it was a genuine pleasure for communities of the west end of the county to entertain the association.

V. Roy Christian, secretary of the Corsicana chamber of commerce, told briefly of the progress made in the Kereen section toward organization of bull circles and called attention to the county-wide program on dairy farming to be given April 26.

Cordial invitation for the bankers to attend the Frost Community banquet April 12 was extended by W. V. Harrison of Frost whose witty remark put the audience in an uproar.

President Elliott announced that the next bankers' meeting would be held in Corsicana on May 1.

DAWSON GETS RAIN THAT WAS NEEDED BY FARMERS FOR CROPS

DAWSON, April 5.—(Spl)—About two inches of rain had fallen here at 8 o'clock Thursday morning and it was just what the farmers needed. Most of the corn is up and looking fine and small grain is also looking well.

Considerable cotton had been planted. Present indications are that there will be very little change in acreage planted in cotton and about the same acreage will be planted in seed.

There was a good season in the ground before the rain came but the high winds had dried the surface until was needed to bring up cotton that had been planted. Corn and oats were also benefited.

Prospects are unusually bright here at this time and farmers, merchants and bankers are optimistic over the outlook.

PECAN GROWER HAS EXCELLENT INCOME FROM HIS TREES

Pecan trees can be relied upon to furnish a considerable income from the farm according to an article appearing in the Farm and Ranch of March 31, written by L. Romberg, of the state department of agriculture, which cites the record of J. M. Blackburn of Corsicana.

Considerable cotton had been planted. Present indications are that there will be very little change in acreage planted in cotton and about the same acreage will be planted in seed.

According to the record kept by Mr. Blackburn and printed in the magazine, the value of the pecan crop for the past five years has been $8,150 or an annual income of $1,630, estimated to be a return of about 5 per cent on the value of the farm.

The remarkable feature of the Blackburn success according to Mr. Romberg is the fact that the pecan orchard is on upland territory when the majority of the pecan growers are inclined to the lowlands.

In addition to the pecan orchard, Mr. Blackburn is utilizing the land as a clover patch and meadow, producing a dual income.

The record which Mr. Blackburn has kept is complete from 1910 when he first began budding his trees and includes 1927, which was record year with a yield of 6,000 pounds valued at $2,400. The ups and downs of the pecan industry are also portrayed in the record which shows a number of failures because of case-borers and other pests.

he faced an apparently futile fight with the Republican majority of the committee lining up solidly behind the treasury suggestions.

The Republican majority showed its strength yesterday in turning down two Democratic proposals which would have put a crimp in the demand of Mr. Mellon that the $290,000,000 house bill be pared down to $200,000,000. Attempts to cut the 13 1/2 per cent corporation tax to 11 per cent the figure accepted by the House were rejected by the Republicans in favor of a 12 per cent rate.

An early decision is due in the committee on the total reduction to be allowed. Chairman Smoot, leader of the Republican majority, has endorsed the $200,000,000 treasury limitation and his party is expected to support him in the committee against the Democratic demand for $300,000,000.

THE FACT IN HISTORY WHICH MAKES ALL OF LIFE DIFFERENT

Songs of Easter Tourists From Many Lands Are In Jerusalem Celebrating The Resurrection of Jesus Christ—A Fresh Study of The Most Important Subject Of All.

Team air is sadly needed in the pitch of the Holy Sepulchre in Palestine. A more oppressive atmosphere, literally and spiritually, scarcely be imagined. It seems as if the place has not been venerated for centuries. Most of the pads who are today thronging famous old structures, for position of which great wars have been fought, will leave the building with a headache.

Since the war, the vogue of visiting Jerusalem at Easter has had widely. Two years ago our pilgrims of every race and all the larger nations. Every of the major divisions of Christianity was represented; the popularity of Mediterranean cruises having concentrated an especially number of Americans and Canadians. Standing room is at a premium for all of the services of Easter Week, held by whichever of three great churches possess historic rights in the sacred land—Greek Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Armenian Gregorian. Place of the Copts and the Abyssinians in the programme is negligible.

Bring to the presence of the fish soldiers, actual fighting at the reputed sepulchre of Jesus before these rival churches has been rare. Before the war it was common. But there is not a note of gaiety and challenge and rivalry all the solemn masses and processions and other services held in the gloomy old church at Easter.

SCORING AT THE SEPULCHRE
Nevertheless, the spectacle is a fine one. More meaningful than elaborate processions, with costly banners and crucifixes jewelled robes, is the sight of devout pilgrims who, with chaste ecstasy, seek the empty tomb of the Saviour. They are clear before my mind's eye as I write—a cup of rapt-faced nuns; a little cluster of Anglican clergy and laity; American tourists hiding their deep feelings beneath a mask of commonplace interest; Arab Christians, flowing robes and headress; a handful of Russian peasants women whose heads covered with snowy white cloths, who have walked to Jerusalem from Aïn Kirim; one black, emotion-ridden Abyssinian; many adherents of the old church, of all social grades of both sexes; three Chinese and two Japanese Christians; some Copts from Egypt; truly it seems as if, even as in the days of Jesus, "all the world is gone for Him."

There is not space here to tell Jerusalem's many-faceted celebration of Easter. What it all means is that, by drawing near to scene of our Lord's crucifixion and resurrection, hungry spirits trying to approach to the great final reality. This multitude thronging the Holy City during Passion Week is but a slight fragmentary visualization of human soul's age-old quest for God. All men everywhere are for a manifestation of the living God, and of the immortal hope after death. There is an earnestness in the depths of every spirit which only the assurance of eternal life can fill. The grave of Jesus is the open road to peace.

Startling, and even repellant, scenes in Jerusalem reveal the differences and antagonisms between the ancient Christian churches. But all are one as we meet beside the sepulchre. We are no divergencies of faith or resurrection. In many tones they chant the same triumphant strain: "He is risen!" On that note of the faith of all Christians is based. If it not true that the heart of Christianity, when vibrations and differences have stripped away, is that Jesus not only died, but also rose again. This is the basic fact, which has made all subsequent history different. For there flames in the empty tomb of Jesus the morning truth: "Because He lives, too, shall arise. Because I live, ye shall live also." Life's New Beginning.

Professor Harnack, the great German theologian and critic, author of the story of the Religion as presented by the four Gospels, states this tremendous admission: "Whatever may have passed at the grave, and in the rest of the appearances, one is certain: This grave was a workplace of indestructible besibilities of triumphant life. If ye then be risen with Christ," says Paul, "seek those things which are above." Here is the lever that lifts mortal to an immortal plane. All that we are not, yet seek to be, is comprehended within this glorious hope.

A libertine life is not a life of liberty.—Old Proverb.

That man may last, but never lives
What much receives, but never gives. —Gibbin.

I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begotten bread.—Psalm 37:25.

A good thing to remember, And a better thing to do, Is to work with the construction gang, And not the wrecking crew. —Churchman.

Much as worthy friends add to the happiness and value of life we must in the main depend upon ourselves, and every one is his own best friend, or worst enemy.—Lord Avebury.

Blooming Grove Lad Painfully Injured

BLOOMING GROVE, April 1.—Joe Dean Cobb, age 9 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Cobb, was knocked unconscious and badly bruised about the head and lower part of the chest when struck by an automobile Tuesday about noon. The accident occurred about one mile south of town and was said to have been unavoidable as the child jumped from a wagon in front of the moving car.

The boy regained consciousness in about two hours and was reported resting well at his home Wednesday.

Sen. Fess is chosen to keynote Republican meet

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

KANSAS CITY, April 1.—(AP)—Heralded as a staunch administration supporter and dedicated by party leaders as outstanding among the persons available, Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, today was cast in the role of temporary chairman and keynote speaker for the Republican national convention here in June.

Selection of Senator Fess climaxed a two-day session of the national sub-committee on convention arrangements ending yesterday.

In announcing the Ohio senator had been named by unanimous vote, William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, said no political significance could be attached to the selection. He added that the committee was interested only in choosing the best man available to outline the party principles.

Following the selection of the keynote speaker, a rumor was circulated that Senator Moses of New Hampshire had been mentioned as a favorite for permanent convention chairman. The permanent chairman is elected by the delegates. Butler denied that the committee had formally discussed the permanent chairmanship or the chairmanships of important sub-committees.

Known as a forceful speaker,

Senator Fess will come here with a knowledge of national affairs obtained as a college professor, author of political works and editor, in addition to experience gained as assistant Republican whip in the senate. He is one of the most ardent in congress.

When he was named as a delegate at large from his state, Senator Fess pledged his support to the presidential candidacy of the late Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio. He specified Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas as his second choice. This was interpreted to mean that since the death of Senator Willis, he would be bound to throw his support to the Kansas senator.

No announcement as to his preference of presidential candidates was made by Senator Fess.

CORSICANANS ARE WITNESSES THURSDAY IN WOODS CASE

(Continued from page 1.) cash and notes for the difference; that he (Smith) would put up three diamonds as security. He said it was intimated Woods and Bibb "could talk" the Navarro grand jury out of indicting Burleson and then they could get a suspended sentence for the 17-year-old boy in Fairfield." He said the Navarro grand jury voted no bill.

Conferred With Bibb.

Further questioning by Tarver brought out that Smith appeared before the grand jury but had conferred with Bibb first, declaring Bibb told him "not to mention either him or Woods." Smith said he paid $500 for the Corsicana case and $250 for counsel in the Free-stone case but should say he had no attorney at Corsicana as they might think $500 too much.

Attorney Farrar for defense objected, and both Tarver and John Sharp for the state were on their feet.

Farrar said: "There is a shotgun charge of conspiracy in the petition, I know; but if it applies to the whole proceeding then it amounts to an absurdity." Defense objection sustained.

On cross examination by Mays, Smith said Burleson was 17, that he had stolen cars; admitted there were two indictments against him; that there were three "in the gang" and two of them were caught; said wife was not present when he talked to Bibb; said he didn't know whether the law would be lenient on account of the lad's youth; said he went before the grand jury after a talk with Bibb; said jury didn't indict his stepson. Smith admitted Woods had recommended three law firms to him; said he paid $100 cash and put up three rings worth $400. Smith said his wife went to Corsicana first to see about the case; Smith on questioning admitted he made "conflicting statements" to the October grand jury but asserted he told the truth in January.

W. F. Bane, Dallas attorney, was the second state witness. Said he was in Corsicana last fall as counsel for Byron Franklin; said he saw and talked with Woods about the cases and found three against Franklin when he thought there were two. One was for receiving stolen property, the other pistol toting and the third swindling. Bane said: "Franklin testified that Mrs. Franklin lived in Colorado and that her son, 40 years old, lived in Red-River county; that Mrs. Franklin wanted Byron to go to Colorado and enter business, but that he could not until the cases were cleared up; that was the reason the trio went to Corsicana, the witness said.

Returned to Dallas.

Pane declared the first bonds did not meet Woods' approval, so he returned to Dallas and drew up new ones. He said Franklin was charged with swindling $176 from a man named Fields, but declared Woods asserted the indictment was no good. The Dallas lawyer said he and Mrs. Franklin agreed to pay off all the cases—for pistol carrying and the swindling charge; that Mrs. Franklin phoned a Dallas bank for $400 and it was received late that afternoon by Western Union; after being identified and cashing the money order, they were served with a capias pro sine die for $129, the Bane, Franklin paid off the $129; then they went to Woods' office, Bane said, to pay off the swindling case when Woods told them there was $35 in court costs he had not figured in; said Woods refused to give receipt, and that the county attorney added the district wouldn't give receipt, either.

Bane testified he handed $100 to Woods for $176 swindling case and $35 court costs, making a total of $211, and giving him $3 in change, but declared Woods searched his pockets and said he had no change, whence, Byron told Woods just "to keep that witness said.

Cross-examined by Attorney

Mays, Bane said he went to Corsicana early in June, 1927, and found the bond forfeited in the pistol case; that he went to Corsicana the last time on October 18 or 19; Bane admitted Woods didn't give assurance that grand jury wouldn't indict again, but that he reached an agreement on the pistol case for $100 and costs; said neither he nor Franklin ever went before the county judge or county court; didn't know whether it was Assistant County Attorney Miller or who it was issued the capias pro sine die.

After a short recess, Bane said Woods told him they were indicted jointly and that $35 ought to be Franklin's part of the court costs; said there was no secrecy on the part of Woods in this matter.

Arrested in Courthouse.

Again questioned by Tarver on redirect examination, Bane said Franklin was arrested in the courthouse, and that he (witness) talked over the matter with Woods in the latter's private office.

On recross examination, Bane

Mrs. Tom Ferguson honored her daughter, Aline, Saturday afternoon, that being Aline's eighth birthday, with a party. A large number of guests were present, each bringing a gift. Games were played and delightful refreshments were served.

"I floated on the dining room table and smashed a hole through the ceiling. Through this I managed to get all of the family out."

Many plate glass windows and skylights were broken by a 100-ton rail which allowed the car to beat in on merchandise stacks.

Buildings washed from their foundations blocked many streets. Some were overturned with the contents scattered in all directions.

It fainted white leaving the courtroom but that herizziness was genuine and not feigned. Mrs. Smith admitted that she testified falsely to the grand jury "three times."

On redirect examination by Mr. Tarver, Mrs. Smith said she knew numbers of Woods' house and office telephones and repeated them; that Miller gave her the numbers which she carried in her purse a week. She said she had talked with Joe Simkins and Woods in Henry Tirey's office in Dallas and that Woods told her "he was indebted to her for helping capture Jackie Jones." Mrs. Smith said she told the whole truth to the grand jury the last time.

Shortly after 5 p. m., Judge Ball adjourned court until 9 a. m. Thursday, the fourth day of the trial.

J. S. Harlee underwent an operation at the Corsicana hospital and Clinic Thursday afternoon.

Bob Scott of Kerens was able to be moved to his home Thursday from the Corsicana Hospital and Clinic.

STREET CAR SERVICE CRIPPLED

Street car service in Corsicana was disrupted early Thursday morning by lightning and high water.

About 7:15 o'clock, lightning struck the trolley wire somewhere in the city and killed the motors in both the street cars, one on the southern and the other on the northern portions of the tracks. The cars were driven by Motormen Patterson and Guttmann. No one was injured. High water on Thirteenth avenue also interrupted the service for a time.

Compensation of farmers and not the ginners in the non-cotton zones of Texas this year will be unfair discrimination," Mr. Shanks said. "Farmers can plant some other crop, but the gins will have to remain idle. The gins will be the real losers, and they should receive the compensation."

Mr. Shanks also recommended a resolution urging ginners to stop buying cotton, and suggested that the gin industry be placed under state control as a public utility.

HEAVY RAIN FELL OVER COUNTY: SOME DAMAGE BY WIND

Accompanied by a strong wind and electrical display one of the heaviest rains of the year fell in Navarro county Thursday morning. The rainfall in Corsicana amounted to 2.42 inches by 11 o'clock and reports indicate a like amount in other parts of the county.

Considerable damage was reported from wind and lightning. At Blooming Grove a barn was blown down and part of the roof was blown from the home of Mr. Rawlinson. No one was hurt.

A barn was burned near Dawson after being struck by lightning.

In Corsicana the streets were flooded until noon and roads in some parts of the county were almost impassable after the rain.

The rain was stopped by the farmers who had planted cotton and it was also beneficial to the growing corn and oats.

In some communities, farmers were waiting for rain before planting. In others they planted shallow and were waiting for a rain to bring cotton up.

The sun came out about 12:30 and only a few clouds remained in a short while.

Her Odom was only slightly damaged, the right front hub cap being missed.
